

ROOSEVELT DECLARES A FIGHT ON TAMMANY

IN ADDRESS BEFORE STATE BULL MOOSE COMMITTEE HE URGES DEFEAT OF BOSSES.

PRASE PROGRESSIVES

Must Prevent the Return to Power of Barnes Republicans He Tells His Partners in Political Faith.

Rochester, N. Y., Sept. 27.—In an address before the state committee of the progressive party here today Col. Roosevelt declared that in the election in New York state this fall "the dominant concern of the people should be to prevent Tammany from obtaining complete control of the state" and that "to this the lesser issues must give way."

He argued that the "predicament in which the state finds its public affairs is due to the failure of the people to elect last fall a governor and legislature pledged to the carrying out of progressive policies. In voting against Tammany, however, Col. Roosevelt urged the voters to support the progressive party candidate to the end that they might "defeat Tammany without enthroning the Barnes republican machine in its place."

"This year," the colonel said, "there are four matters of supreme political importance for decision before the people of the commonwealth. First, the election of an assembly; second, the attempted impeachment of the governor of the state; third, the election of the city of New York; and fourth, the election of two judges of the court of appeals."

As to each of these four issues the overthrow of Tammany is the chief issue. After emphasizing that the progressive party was waging war against "corrupt machines" Col. Roosevelt said:

"At this moment that which contains the most of menace to all our states is Tammany. In New York City we progressives are doing all we can to elect a non-partisan ticket headed by a progressive democrat, a tried and excellent public official John Furber, for the recall of the control of Tammany Hall and make it an estimate not only for securing honesty in municipal affairs, but for bettering the living and working conditions of the men and women who toil with their hands."

"In the same fashion we battle against Tammany Hall in the governorship fight because Tammany Hall is attacking the governor not for what he may have done before election, but because since election he has stood for honesty and the right of the people. I wish to call the attention of the 'conservatives' who have professed such horror of the progressive doctrine, of the popular recall to just what has been done by Tammany in the absence of the popular recall. I ask you to consider whether you prefer the recall exercised by the people themselves at the polls, or the recall exercised by Mr. Murphy at the end of a telephone."

"I am not now discussing the merits of the charges nor the evidence against Gov. Sulzer. I am not now speaking of any matter pending before the court of impeachment nor of the allegations that will be considered by the court of impeachment. These allegations afford only the nominal reason for his impeachment. All the matters now produced before that court were well known to the leaders of Tammany Hall at the time they were calling Governor Sulzer a second Andrew Jackson. They remained silent about them until the governor refused to take his orders from the boss of Tammany Hall. The real reason for the governor's impeachment may not come before the body now trying him, but these real reasons, these real charges must be passed upon by the people."

"No intelligent and honest man doubts that the attack upon the governor has been made not because of anything he did during the campaign, or before he took office but because through his officials he hunted down corruption after he took office and because he championed the cause of popular government and the rights of the people against the mandate of Tammany Hall."

GRUESOME MURDER LAID TO HUSBAND

Find Woman's Body Buried in Corn Field, With Bloody Coat and Shirt.—Two Sons Are Missing.

Peru, Ind., Sept. 27.—Officers are searching for Clyde Wilkinson, farmer, of this county. The body of his wife was found buried in a corn field back of the barn last evening. In the grave were found a man's bloody coat and shirt.

The woman disappeared August 25th, and on that date Wilkinson began advertising a public sale which was held two weeks ago. He has not been seen since and his two sons are also missing. Wilkinson and his wife had been separated, and on August 25 he sent for her to come home from Kokoma, as their son was sick. The boy was brought to the Peru hospital, but he has since recovered.

LAND TRAIN ROBBERS AFTER STERN CHASE

Bloodhounds Lead Trail to Swamp and Posse Capture Five Suspects for Southern Train Holdup.

Tuscaloosa, Ala., Sept. 27.—Five persons were held in the county jail today suspected of having connection with the Alabama and Great Southern train robbery Friday. Several officials believe the actual robbers have not been captured and a chase through the swamps continues. Bloodhounds led the searchers to a bloody hat in a swamp which is believed to have been worn by one of the three robbers. The mail clerks assert that one of the bandits cut his hand on a broken light globe in the mail car. Chief Rodeker of Birmingham and other officers estimate the booty of the bandits at $50,000, but say it may double this amount.

SULZER'S SECRETARY IS SUBPOENAED TODAY

Impeachment Court Not in Session Today.—Speculation As to Whether Governor's Wall Street Operator Will Testify.

Albany, Sept. 27.—Chester C. Platt, secretary to Gov. Sulzer today was subpoenaed as a witness for the board of managers in the impeachment trial of the governor. He was served in the executive chamber.

The main unresolvable question in Albany today was whether Frederick L. Colwell, Governor Sulzer's alleged dummy in his Wall Street deals, would testify in the trial of the impeached governor. There was no session of the court today.

Meantime much doubt was expressed among the attorneys for the board of managers as to whether Colwell ever would testify. They say he will prove the connecting link between Sulzer and Wall Street and assist the governor's attorney will not let Colwell take the stand if there is any way to prevent it.

Hudson, N. Y., was the scene of the only actual activity in the Sulzer case today. There, James C. Garrison, a former state employee, and personal friend of the governor had a hearing before Supreme Court Justice Goddard on an application for a writ of habeas corpus to obtain his release from the penitentiary. He is held for contempt of the assembly.

LOSES BOX CIGARS FOR BEING ALIVE

Writer of Blue Book, Reports False Death of Prominent Milwaukee Charity Worker.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 27.—Official recognition of the fact that he is not dead has been given to Gustav Freilson, for many years superintendent of the Associated Charities of Milwaukee, in letters from the State Historical Society of Wisconsin. The story of Mr. Freilson's alleged demise may be set short with the statement that a clerk in the State Historical library at Madison, in enumerating the deaths of prominent Wisconsin citizens for the 1913 Blue Book, misinterpreted a newspaper headline and put down the name of Mr. Freilson under the general heading "Deaths in 1913." The aforesaid clerk, investigation proves, is a gentle disposition and faultless habits, and studiously avoids the taking of human life or any other kind of life. When the enumerator's carefully typewritten sheets were sent to the Industrial Commission, the editors took the data as authoritative and therefore the following historical untruth appeared in the 1913 Blue Book:

"The following prominent Wisconsin citizen died: Gustav Freilson, for twenty-seven years in charge of Milwaukee's Associated Charities," etc.

That he was alive and deeply resenting the exaggerated report of his death, he became known when Freilson saw the item. It is related that he got a box of cigars that he had not been reported dead and lost the bet when the Blue Book was shown him. Under the constitution and laws of Wisconsin the state is not privileged to restore the cost of the cigars to Mr. Freilson.

In a letter of apology, Dr. Reuben G. Thwaites, Superintendent of the State Historical society, makes the following graceful suggestion to Mr. Freilson, who is now a resident of Waukesha:

"Had I myself been announced as departed, I should consider it a cause for rejoicing that I was still in the land of the living. I hope that your family rejoices with you, as I most certainly do."

"With the hope that you will long continue to be of service to your fellow men, I am," etc.

MORGAN INHERITANCE TAX IS TWO MILLION

State Comptroller Receives Check for Two and a Half Million for Morgan Inheritance Levy.

Albany, Sept. 27.—State Comptroller Schrier today received a check of two and one-half million dollars in payment of the inheritance tax on a part of the estate of the late J. Pierpont Morgan. The payment indicates a valuation of approximately sixty-five million. This, however, does not cover the entire estate, but only that part over which an agreement has been reached between representatives of the comptroller and the Morgan collection is included in this valuation as it is still undecided whether this will be turned over to the city of New York. If the city becomes the owner no tax will be required. By paying the inheritance tax before October 1st the executors saved $125,000.

MAN OFFICIALLY DEAD CLAIMS INHERITANCE

William Thomas of Marshalltown, Iowa, Established Identity to Court and Gets Bequest.

Pottsville, Pa., Sept. 27.—Dead by law, William Thomas of Marshalltown, Iowa, came here to claim bequest and so successfully established his identity that the court ordered $475 left to him by John Jenkins, of St. Clair, this county, in 1871 be paid. Thomas, a war veteran, had been long believed dead in the world in a soldier's home, but he was very much alive when advertised for in newspapers.

The case is one of the most peculiar ever brought to the attention of the local court. Thomas came to this county in 1852 and lived at St. Clair for several years before he married Elizabeth Williams of Beaver county. They journeyed to the west and were practically lost for nearly sixty years, relatives interested being unable to learn their whereabouts.

Several years ago a relative died in Wisconsin leaving him a bequest of $200. Efforts on the part of the family and of Wisconsin authorities failed to locate him and he was declared legally dead. He had, however, been legally dead in Wisconsin the local authorities advertised and were greatly surprised when Thomas walked into the office.

PLACE A VALUATION ON OSHKOSH PLANT

Railroad Commission Fixes Value of Water Company's Plant at $525,000.—Below Maxcy's Figure.

Madison, Sept. 27.—A valuation of $525,000 was fixed for the plant of the Oshkosh Water company in a decision made by the railroad commission this noon. The city voted to purchase the plant, which was owned by the Oshkosh Water company, for a valuation of $600,000. The commission's appraisal does not vary much from the valuation made by the city's expert. The decision, which is a long, gives a complex analytical table of valuation of property and fixes six months as the time for making the payment. In the meantime the city must pay 6 percent interest on all unpaid amounts.

MINER IS WOUNDED RESISTING ARREST

Guard Three Miners Who Murdered Two Musicians From Mob—Race War Forces Calling Troops.

Penton, Ill., Sept. 27.—After a battle with deputy sheriff John Hurzan, a miner was arrested here today in connection with the murder of two musicians late Sunday night. Hurzan was dangerously wounded in the battle with the two deputies.

The murder of the two musicians precipitated the race war between American and foreign miners that resulted in the calling out of state troops.

Hurzan after being taken to the county jail signed a confession implicating three others in the murder. Two of these were arrested. Fearing a mob outbreak the sheriff swore in city additional deputies as soon as Hurzan was locked up and threw them as a guard around the prison.

LA FOLLETTE VOICES OPINION ON CURRENCY

Editorial in Magazine Stating Bill Needs Vital Changes to Free People From Trusts.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 27.—Senator La Follette announced today that he favored an amendment in the currency bill that will prevent in the future "interlocking directorates," by which a few men control the money of the country. The announcement is made in a signed editorial in La Follette's Weekly in which he intimated that the democratic administration is attempting to shirk the task of centralizing control of the money, which the ingenuity of high finance has contrived, is the interlocking directorate. He says it is the back bone of the money power.

"Combinations in our industrial world burden and oppress the people," continues Senator La Follette. "But still more dangerous than industrial combinations is the subtle centralized control exercised over capital and credit by the money power. Its constant, all-providing influence is exerted day by day over the commercial transactions of the entire nation. The interlocking directorate is the most effective agency."

Through it, the power scans the books of every bank in the chain, sits in its private councils, is represented on all important clearing house committees, extends credit with a nod or withholds it. It makes money cheap or dear at will, and leaves no tangible evidence of its potent influence."

Senator La Follette shows the real danger of the money power in the currency bill, and declares that the democratic administration was pledged to free the people from the grasp of the money trust.

But, says some inscrutable reason, the mandate goes forth that there must be no provision against interlocking directorates in the currency bill, says the Senator. "What does this mean?" It has become known that the question was raised in the democratic caucus; that the caucus was advised that the president wanted legislation against interlocking directorates omitted from the bill; that Mr. Bryan wrote a letter advising that it being made a part of the currency measure that Mr. Class, chairman of the committee on banking, urged that it be taken up next session; and that democratic leader Underwood moved that it be referred to a judiciary committee to report on next session.

"Does the administration fear that if the currency bill prohibits interlocking directorates, the money power will defeat its passage? Is the administration afraid to incur the opposition of this monster?"

Senator La Follette favors an amendment "right now."

Governor Felker Denies Extradition To Pennsylvania and Thaw Will Start Tax Payer's Suit.

Concord, N. H., Sept. 27.—In order to bring about his legal removal to Pennsylvania in event that the request of the New York authorities for his extradition is denied by Governor Felker, a tax payer's suit against the state of New York is planned by Harry Kendall Thaw.

Thaw said today that a report had reached him from New York that William T. Jerome intended to take no further steps in the case here if the executive refused to grant extradition. Replying to the suggestion that this might necessitate his permanent residence in New Hampshire, Thaw said he was confident that a tax payer's suit to prevent expenses to New York on account of a citizen of another state would bring about his legal removal to his home state.

"That is the one thing my mother and I wish," he said.

A PROSPEROUS YEAR AT BAPTIST CHURCH

REPORTS SUBMITTED AT ANNUAL MEETING INDICATE FLOURISHING CONDITION.

LARGE BENEVOLENCES

Some Fifteen Hundred Dollars Expended by Church for Missions And Relief—Trustees Are Re-elected.

Members and friends of the First Baptist church at the annual banquet and business meeting held in the church parlors Friday evening were pleased with the reports of the church and society officers which indicated a most flourishing and satisfactory condition of affairs. With a wider scope of activity, with the finances in excellent shape, with a large membership enrolled, the year just closed has been a most prosperous one.

There were over four hundred present for the banquet which was served at seven o'clock following the business reception. Delightful music was furnished during the dinner hour by the Sunday school orchestra with Mrs. John C. Nichols, leader and director. Other orchestra numbers were enjoyed later in the evening. The Reverend Joseph Chalmers Hazen, pastor of the church, presided as toastmaster.

Benevolence Report.
The report of LeRoy A. Eller, on church benevolence showed that the church had raised and paid out some fifteen hundred dollars during the past year for this line of work. Over one thousand dollars were expended for home and foreign missions, $100 was raised for the aid of the food sufferers, a considerable sum was expended for the relief of the poor and several important special gifts made up the total amount.

The church has adopted a new plan of handling the benevolence fund. A special secretary is named to have entire charge of all money collected in the church for mission or relief purposes, thus removing the burden of this account from the church treasurer.

Finances Satisfactory.
The report of the church treasurer, W. E. Clinton, was read by the assistant treasurer, Mrs. Clinton. It indicated a satisfactory condition with a substantial sum in the treasury at present and with the coal bill for the winter paid. There has been a reduction in the amount which the church owes the banks to about $500 at the present time.

The report of the church clerk, J. T. Fitchett, showed a membership of 554 persons. There have been nearly 100 new members since the beginning of the past year and seven have been called by death. In memory of those who have passed away during the year the members stood while the pastor offered a brief prayer.

Trustees' Report.
Stanley O. Dunwiddie submitted the report of the board of trustees, which served to reiterate the flourishing condition of the church affairs. Mr. Dunwiddie called attention to the fact that the church was one of the first organizations in the city to become incorporated under the laws of Wisconsin, articles being taken out forty-four years ago. Two banks and the gas company were the only other companies to be incorporated previous to the Baptist church.

Mr. Dunwiddie characterized the church as a plant in which the members are stockholders. The financial condition is satisfactory, he said, the stockholders have a good superintendent, the plant is there, the membership is there, and with everyone doing his or her part there is no reason why this prosperous condition should not continue.

Re-elect Trustees.
A. F. Hall, chairman of the nominating committee, submitted the list of nominations for the ensuing year, and the persons recommended were elected by unanimous ballot. Three trustees whose terms expire this year were re-elected for a three year term: W. B. Conrad, A. Lawson and E. N. Froendall.

NEW X-RAY MACHINE AT MERCY HOSPITAL

Instruments Finest That Can Be Obtained Installed in Basement

Of New Building.
Janesville physicians and Mercy hospital now have at their disposal for the treatment of patients a new X-ray machine which is the best of its kind that can be obtained. The new instrument which is of twenty-two kilowatt capacity and cost $2,000, was installed this week in the basement of the new building which within a short time will be ready for occupancy and dedication.

A number of physicians who have had extensive experience in the use of X-rays witnessed a demonstration of the machine this morning and reported that they had never seen any that was superior, even in the famous hospital of the Mayo brothers at Rochester, Minnesota.

So powerful is the current produced by the open core transformer and efficient the tube that practically all work with it can be done in one to three flashes. An X-ray photograph of any portion of the body desired can be made in a fraction of a second. This obviates any danger of burning the patient, as was common when feeble machines were used and long exposures were necessary. It can be used for the heaviest radiographic work, that is photography of bones, the location of kidney and gall stones, bullets or other foreign objects in the body. With its use and a fluoroscopic screen a physician can by feeding his patient bismuth-sub-carbonate with malted milk follow the digestive process through the entire alimentary canal or intestines.

All the current producing and controlling apparatus is housed in a large oak cabinet. The X-ray or Crookes tube is of unusual size and can be adjusted to any desired position. So that the fluoroscopic screen and the table from which patients are placed for examination or treatment. The hospital has made arrangement for services of one of the best operators in the middle west.

NERVOUS HEADACHES

Heavy Feeling, as If My Brain Was Pressing Down

Mrs. Hill says: "I cannot tell you how much I have suffered during the past twelve years. Twelve years is a long time for any one to suffer. A great multitude of women in this country know exactly what Mrs. Hill means when she says, 'Heavy feeling, as if my brain was pressing down.' I could not get my rest at night. Would have sinking spells and feel so weak that I could not do my work. A great many women in the United States will recognize in this description their own experience."

Mrs. Hill found a remedy. After taking four bottles of Peruna she gained in strength and flesh and wrote us that she was a well woman again. She says, "I cannot thank you enough for my recovery."

This is no ordinary incident. Twelve years suffering. Four bottles of Peruna. Restored to perfect health. If Peruna can do this for one woman why can it not for another? Is it not worth your attention? Is it not worth trying?

Those who object to liquid medicines can now obtain Peruna Tablets.

HOLD NOVEL ENTERTAINMENT FOR MISS MARIE HENRIKSEN

In honor of Miss Marie Henriksen, who is soon to wed Charles Hinehimer, Miss Hattie Timpany was the hostess of a novel entertainment at her home, 422 Fremont street, last evening.

Hearts and minds daintily festooned on drapings of red and white was the feature of the decoration. A unique surprise in the way of entertainment was furnished when the guests were supplied with material to tie a quilt for the bride. After the serving of a dainty lunch and "tasting" the bride, many helpful hints were given her as well as useful gifts for her new home.

It would seem after a contemplation of the days that the various weights and classes of fighting have their periods of prosperity, flourish for a while and then pass on. This is particularly true of the middleweight class at present. Years ago there have been some wonderful fighters among the middle class boys, while today there are few or none. Jack Dempsey, Bob Fitzsimmons and Stanley Ketchel are a few who have honored the middleweight division and perhaps Stanley Ketchel was the most spectacular of them all. Just previous to Ketchel's debut into fight circles there was a noticeable dearth of middle class fighters.

Starting as a welterweight, Ketchel soon developed and grew into the middleweight division. Ketchel wasn't considered very seriously at first, but he soon commanded attention, and easily defeated the best men that were put up against him. He was a wonderful fighter with a real wallop and exceedingly clever for so big a man. So it appears that the middleweight class is having a dull time at present waiting the appearance of a big man. And as soon as another Ketchel looms up on the horizon the middleweight class will be able to eat their three a day.

If you happen to get hold of a bank note some time in the days to come with Ty Cobb's signature on it hold onto it, because it's good all right and it's the real thing. A few days ago at Washington Ty visited the treasury department and while there asked to see some of the bank notes of the First National Bank of Laval, Ga. And then he signed them after explaining to the officer in charge that he was a director in that bank and as such was entitled to sign any money printed for them. A bank note worth ten dollars with Ty Cobb's autograph on it would make a large hit with the average fan.

The Giants are finishing up the season with a pretty good record on the bags and they have had their quota of stolen bases. Whether or not they get away with any very brilliant stuff against the Athletics is a question, however, as Connie Mack has two very real little pitchers in Sealing and Lapp. The Giants will have to speed even a little more than they have if they are to beat out the Athletics catchers. In a game against the Cubs the other day McGraw ordered his men to take all the chances they could and steal every bag they could lay a hand on. Jimmy Archer, as we all know, is just about the best thing we have in the way of sure hitting, quick stops. And Jawn was eager to see what his men would do in an extremely and against a catcher with a whip. The results made the National League champions look rather weak in this department. Every attempt to parlay another sack was speedily discouraged by Archer. As was said above their record on the bags is pretty good, but the experience with the Cubs rather with Jimmy Archer shows that they can be checked. And it wouldn't surprise anyone of the Athletic catchers sent them back as often as did Archer. At any rate there will be no close calls on the bags in the world's series.

SIX CUP DEFENDERS MAY BE ENTERED IN ELIMINATION RACES

Plans for That Number of Seventy-Five Footers Have Already Been Proposed.

(By Associated Press.)

New York, Sept. 27.—If the present plans of American yachtsmen can be considered equivalent to yachts there will be no scarcity of cup defenders when Sir Thomas Lipton and his Shamrock IV arrive at Sandy Hook next summer. No less than six seventy-five footers have already been proposed and should be built, the trial and elimination races will be equal in interest to the cup contests proper, scheduled for next September. It appears certain at this time that at least four of the six yachts projected will eventually decide on the ways and that yachtsmen with a reasonable type of ocean racing will receive a tremendous boom.

One order has already been placed with the famous designer, Nat Herreshoff, of Bristol, R. I., and two others are expected if Herreshoff will accept them. The first syndicate in the field, which is known among the amateur yachtsmen as the Big Six, consists of Cornelius Vanderbilt, J. S. Bourne, J. P. Morgan, George Baker, E. A. Walters and J. James. Plans for this yacht, which is to be sailed by Robert Emmerson of Boston, are almost completed.

A second yacht will quite probably be built by three members of this syndicate assisted by C. Oliver Iselin. Bourne is heading this movement and has been assured the cooperation of two other members of the "Big Six" syndicate. Alexander C. Cochrane, owner of the racing yacht Westward, has been tentative plans for a cup defender of which he is to be the sole owner. Still a fourth group which is discussing a seventy-five footer has been formed by Commodore E. Walter Clark of Philadelphia and George M. Pynchon of New York. The cooperation of one or two other yachtsmen is desired before any definite announcement is likely from this group. The plans for the fifth and sixth yachts are rather vague at this time but contain, nevertheless, possibilities which may develop additional barriers between the America's cup and the Shamrock IV. George Owens, a yacht designer and Corinthian sailor of note, who went to Chicago two weeks ago with the yacht Stranger to sail for the Manhasset cup, has been moving in the matter. He has sought financial support from Chicago and Great Lake sailors for a yacht to be designed and built by himself and the middle west appeared to take the idea of being represented in the salt water classic of yachting.

New England would also like to see a yacht sailing for the land of the Puritans. The original plan of a New England syndicate of yachtsmen, so we are told, has been abandoned. There is to take its place, however, the suggestion of a boat to be built by popular subscription. There is a possibility of such an arrangement for the trial race with San Francisco and the far west yet to be heard from.

Football Prospects Are Good. Just at present New England is in the throes of football and the prospects for sterling teams at both Harvard and Yale in the coming autumn are excellent. The Crimson clan that routed the Blue a year ago is exceedingly optimistic and not without cause. A larger or better squad of candidates has not assembled in the Cambridge stadium in years. There is enough material for two typical Harvard eleven and the struggle for places on the varsity team will be keener this fall than for many seasons.

A fast and powerful backfield, consisting of Brickley, Hardwick and Bradley of the 1912 team is available, augmented by Eddie May, a freshman and Cartmell, the latter trio all candidates for the position of quarterback, left vacant by the graduation of Harry Gardner. All told there is material for one backfield combination and judging by the way Coach Houghton shifted the players about during the early weeks of practice he proposes to have at least three quarterbacks ready to enter the game at any time. Veteran and substitute material for the line also is abundant and when the problems of filling the positions of quarterback and center are solved Harvard is going to have a football team hard to defeat.

This is the very task that Yale football authorities have set for themselves and despite the lack of anything like the material that is at the disposal of the Crimson it is not impossible, Yale graduates and classmen are united in the plan to revive the famous bulldog spirit at New Haven, and believe that they will succeed.

The early practice at the Rhode Island seashore sent the leading candidates back to New Haven in excellent condition. With Head Coach Howard Jones in charge, "Silent" Frank Hinkley and former players of his type to assist, with Walter Camp as a general advisor and strategist, Yale has a really formidable array of football players. Although it is conceded that Harvard has a big advantage in her wealth of stars and material the belief is growing that when the Crimson clashes against the Blue at Cambridge on November 22, the stadium will witness a football battle royal.

1913 Sporting Record. American sportsmen will soon be taking stock and balancing the ledger of 1913, already noted as a year of many and remarkable international sporting competitions. When the final pages are written the record cannot fail to show the most ardent follower of amateur sport. In all eight contests for international trophies have attracted more than the usual interest in the states this year. Of these six have passed into history and five returned the United States as winners. American teams won the polo cup, the Davis tennis cup, the Souder yacht racing trophies, the Palma rifle shooting trophy and the international canoe racing cup. The one defeat to date was in the race for the Harmsworth motor boat trophy. Still two others remain to be contested in the international aerobics and balloon races. Even though the United States meet defeat in these closing competitions a record of eight victories in one year is sufficient honor for Uncle Sam in twelve months.

EXPECT BIG CROWD AT GAME TOMORROW

Madison State League Against Cardinals Should Prove Big Drawing Card at Driving Park.

Weather permitting, the Janesville fans will turn out in vast numbers to see the Madison state league team pitting with the Janesville Cardinals at the driving park, Sunday afternoon, as the baseball season is fast giving away to football in interest and the welch is certain to be one of the best ever staged at the local diamond. Every player on the Cardinal team expresses himself as confident of giving the leaguers a tight squeeze and Butlers' hope to down his former team mates. The Cardinals have played a winning brand of ball throughout the season and from the clean games that they have been playing they deserve the support from the stands. A ball nine cannot be expected to win every game but at the present time the Cards stand with the win side of the column over balancing their defeats.

MAINE DEER SEASON WILL OPEN WEDNESDAY

(Special to the Gazette.) Bangor, Me., Sept. 27.—Hunters and wood-bird-hunters of the "bloody amateur" description are pouring into Maine to be ready for the opening of the shooting season for deer next Wednesday. According to reports from all sections of the hunting grounds deer are plentiful in Maine this year and it is estimated that more than 10,000 deer will fall victims to the ambitious sportsmen. Deer about particularly in the eastern and northern counties, but the best hunting grounds are around Moosehead Lake, the headwaters of the Penobscot and St. John, in the counties of Hancock and Washington and in the Rangeley region.

(Special to the Gazette.) Grand Rapids, Mich., Sept. 27.—Representatives of the six clubs of which the Central League is composed arrived here today to attend the two days conference of the league which will begin here tomorrow. Under the rules of the league the meeting is always held in the city whose team won the pennant for the season and as the Grand Rapids team is the pennant winner of this year's baseball season of the Central League, the conference will be held here. President Louis Heibronner of the league has made the positive statement that the members of the league do not contemplate increasing the number of clubs which at present is limited to six. Among the matters to come up at the meeting are the adoption of a new constitution, many changes in the rules, the appointment of a schedule committee, the fixing of the salary limit and other subjects of interest. The drafting season for Class B leagues starts October 7 and continues for five days. The Central

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT.

Albert is dead, the newsboy who never had any chance. So he has been called, and rightly. For he was born to no name; the only record of his birth covers it with infamy. His mother was an inmate of that restricted district which so long disgraced Milwaukee. Born blind and crippled, he shows a splendid example of that system of morals whose apologists insist that the sacrifice of women and children is necessary. There is enough in the life of this one newsboy to start some of those sons thinking who say that this thing "always has been and always must be."

But to return to Albert. This newsboy surely had as little in life as anyone could have. No family, no name, blind, wretchedly crippled. Could anyone have less of a heritage? Had anyone a better right to plead that nothing was to be expected of him? But it was not so. For all his blindness, for all the wretchedness that gradually destroyed his life until he died at 28, Albert had achieved something. A seller of papers, he had made his own way. And when nature drew the kindly curtain of death on his sufferings, they found he had saved enough money to pay for his burial. This wretched, sick, blind newsboy had been thrifty enough to start a bank account.

Is there any lesson in this for any other boy? Can anyone, no matter how hardly he may think fortune has used him and fate mocked him, say that he has had as little chance as this? Is there anyone who can plead any excuse in the face of the example of the newsboy whom fate had indeed mocked with her bitterest treatment, but who had living even from misfortune his living and a little more?

This pathetic little story from the Milwaukee Journal is taken from real life. It is the closing scene in the tragedy which marked the career of the newsboy "Albert" from the date of his birth until his life went out in the hospital, a few days ago. Personal knowledge of this heroic boy prompts the following scrap of history.

Mark Albert was a foundling picked up on a doorstep in Milwaukee twenty-eight years ago by a policeman and carried to a Sisters' Home for Babies, where he spent the first twelve years of his life.

When he could no longer remain in the home to which he had become greatly attached, the superintendent of poor of Milwaukee county brought him to the State School for the Blind at Janesville, where he was entered as a pupil and where the next eight years of his life was spent.

He was not only blind, but crippled by deformity, but in spite of this trouble handicap he possessed a mind that was clear and bright, and a heart so responsive that every touch of kindness was appreciated.

"Mark" was a devout Catholic, and his love for the church, which was the only home he knew, was marked by the loyalty with which he observed its ordinances. He was the soul of honor and no murmur of complaint ever passed his lips.

A general favorite in the school, and enjoying the kindly interest of the teachers, his mind developed rapidly, and long before the course was completed, he was fired with ambition to do something that would lead to independence and self-support, but the problem was too complex for solution until he solved it himself, and for the past half dozen years "Mark Albert's" news stand on the corner has been liberally patronized and he was no longer dependent.

His frail and crippled body was his only weakness, for he had a brave heart and a mind alert to the unequal struggle. Thus he lived and thus he died and on the tablet which marks his resting place should be inscribed, "One of God's Choice Heroes."

When the newsboys came to the hospital and offered to pay his funeral expenses it was found that the little bank account, carefully laid away, made the homeless boy independent.

There is something suggestive and much that is inspiring about the life of this boy who made a place for himself among men, deprived of even the inheritance of a name for a start.

The average boy refers to his father with pride, and speaks of his mother, and the home which sheltered him, with loving remembrance. The good name which he inherits, is a passport and an asset not always appreciated. It often brings him to the front and holds him there until he can gain recognition through merit.

The boy away from home among strangers, looking for something to do, is fortunate if cheered by the greeting, "I used to know your father and I am glad to meet his son." He realizes, perhaps for the first time, that his father's name is worth something to him.

But "Mark Albert" was deprived of even this inheritance. A homeless waif, with no ties of blood or kinship. This misfortune was keenly felt by the lad during the years of his school life, when he was obliged to find a home, through the long summer vacations, at the county poor house, for he was a ward of both state and county.

It falls to the lot of most boys to inherit a good constitution, and the average lad is so full of life and mischief that he frequently becomes a terror to the neighborhood. These evidences of health and vigor mean capital for the long years ahead when the strain of life taxes every muscle to the limit. It is worth much to inherit a good constitution.

"Mark Albert" came into life a physical wreck, blind and deformed, the victim through inheritance of somebody's sins, for which he was not responsible. He was a stranger to all the sports which fill the boy's life with happiness, not even permitted to be a spectator.

But the great God who permits these misfortunes equipped the boy with a heart which won a place for him in this big, busy, kind-hearted world, and a brain which commanded recognition.

If this kind of a boy, nameless and homeless, blind and deformed, is able by the power of pluck and will to take his position on the firing line and forge out a self-supporting destiny, what can't be done by the great army of boys who enter active life every year fully equipped for service?

We think sometimes that our lot in life is hard, and envy people who are more favorably envied, but life is one long holiday to the most of us, compared to the "Mark Alberts" who struggle along the highway without complaint, bearing burdens which no amount of money would tempt us to share.

The patient life of this sorely afflicted lad was always an inspiration to the friends who knew him and his passing can not be regretted, for his attainment was complete.

A most extraordinary thing that might be taken as an object lesson to Wisconsin has taken place in Louisiana. Its legislature has adjourned after being in session a few minutes less than four days. There is fully justified complaint of intolerance on the part of total abstinence from liquor who are not satisfied with practicing the doctrine which they preach but strive for legislation to enforce abstinence upon others. If a story which comes from Griefswald, Germany, is true, there is arrogant and foolish intolerance among those on the other side. It is asserted that a number of students of the University of Griefswald who are total abstainers have been expelled because they participated in action against academic customs by declining to participate in a "beer evening" in celebration of the recent jubilee of the Emperor's reign. As the Emperor lately has been advising Germans not to drink so much beer the episode may develop a later chapter.—Evening Wisconsin.

PATHE WEEKLY LYRIC THEATER

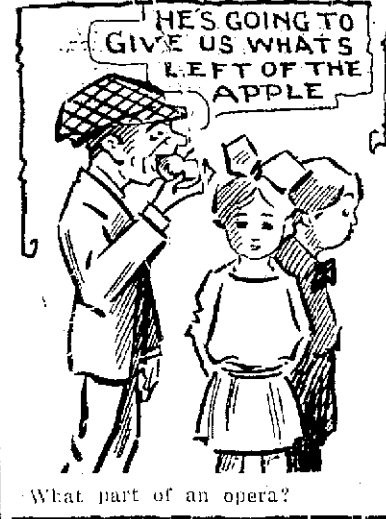

LYRIC NOTES

An unusually powerful drama, "The Call" will be presented at the Lyric tomorrow. "The Call" is a two-part Vitaphone Special Feature and is one of the strongest photo-plays of its kind that has been produced. Telling the story of a man's revenge upon a false friend and showing the manner in which his unbridled passions finally recoil upon himself. The manner in which the plot of the play has been worked out deserves special commendation for its originality of treatment.

Ed. Wilson, a failure in life, seeing that his wife is unhappy, and that she loves another man, better than himself, tries her and goes away to begin life again in the Northwest. Some years later, when he has managed to accumulate a considerable fortune, he learns that his wife had been neglected shamefully by her new husband and that she had as it was thought, died as a result of his ill-treatment. But, at once comes back, determined to be revenged upon his former rival, whom he regards as the woman's murderer.

He seeks out his victim and reduces him to a state of terror by constantly reminding him that he is near but delaying the final act of vengeance until the man is almost reduced to insanity. Finally he enters his rival's home and accomplishes his end, although he is himself morally wounded in the struggle and dies in a few moments after his victim.

The railroad work in which Tom is supposed to be engaged is the most daring piece of realism ever attempted. It was an actual occurrence and challenges belief.

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT
TO THE THEATRE-GOING PUBLIC
OF JANESVILLE
Under date of July 31st, in the Gazette the Apollo Theater advertised "Talking Motion Pictures" direct from the Palace Music Hall and Majestic Theater in Chicago. They also stated in their advertisement that they were the only theater owners in Janesville who could bring these Talking Pictures to this city and that these pictures they were bringing were the original.
The pictures which were in reality shown at the Apollo were not direct from the Majestic Theatre or Palace Music Hall. Nor were they anywhere near being the best, based upon what the management themselves say, and what the patrons of the Apollo expressed.
That they were very much mistaken in their statement about bringing the pictures to Janesville exclusively is evidenced by the fact that we are going to show the GENUINE EDISON TALKING PICTURES at our show-house Tuesday and Wednesday, Sept. 30th, Oct. 1st. See advertisement regarding the pictures themselves.

DECIDE PROPOSITION NOT CERTAIN ENOUGH TO MAKE INVESTMENT

REPORT OF COMMITTEE WHICH INVESTIGATED FACTORY PROPOSITION MADE LAST EVENING.

MASS MEETING IS HELD

Against Taking Seventy Thousand Dollars Worth of Stock in Manufacturing Company.

That Janesville is interested in bringing to this city a live, up-to-date manufacturing plant, and that with this end in view the members of both the Commercial and Twenty-five Thousand club are working together, has been evidenced this past ten days by the subscribing of some seventy thousand dollars for the purchase of stock in the Port Dearborn Manufacturing company of Clybourn Junction, Illinois, the factory to be moved from its present site to Janesville. That at a mass meeting of the subscribers of this stock held last evening at the city hall, it was decided not to invest the money raised, in the concern in question, merely shows that the committee which made a thorough investigation of the plant considered the proposition a great possibility, but with a future view to making its success a possibility rather than a probability.

Careful Investigation.

The subscription of the seventy thousand dollars for the stock, and an option for a site for the proposed factory, was completed on Wednesday of the present week and a joint committee of the Twenty-five Thousand club and the Commercial Club, to investigate the factory, to make a thorough investigation of the plant, was held before the deal was actually closed. This committee was composed of Frank Croak, A. P. Lovjoy, E. Fish, M. O. Mout, T. O. Howe, and Smith, E. E. Lane, and Michael Hayes. This committee spent Thursday and Friday at the factory and in going over the books of the company and estimating the possibility of the success of the proposition if the factory was moved to Janesville.

A Possibility.

It was decided by the committee that the concern had a possibility of success but that it would be in the hands of a gambler and that they would not be inclined to invest the deal without first consulting the remainder of the stock subscribers. All but one of the committee were willing to permit their stock subscription to stand for the proposed venture, but at a vote of the stock subscribers present last evening it was decided to abandon the idea of bringing the factory to Janesville. T. E. Welsh, however, voiced the sentiment of the majority of the stockholders when he announced at the conclusion of the vote that he believed the majority of the gentlemen who subscribed to the proposed stock issue could be willing to permit their subscription to stand as made and that the committee be authorized to look further for a live concern that could be brought to the city and established here.

The Proposition.

The concern discussed last evening was established in 1895. It has handled numerous manufacturers for various articles that have found ready sale in the past and at present is seeking to develop what is known as the "worm gear," the possibility of which are most promising. In fact the report made by the committee last evening showed that the future of this article in the manufacturing world was very great, but that there was a possibility of failure and it was with this thought in mind they hesitated about recommending to all the stock subscribers that they make the investment. The concern is also negotiating with several other groups of capitalists relative to establishing a large factory, and the action of the Janesville business men was merely to accept the proposition made to them by the owners of the concern who are most enthusiastic over the future of their articles manufactured in larger quarters, where they could develop.

Another Factory.

Acting on the suggestions made at the meeting, the eagerness of the men who have subscribed for the stock, that Janesville secure a second class factory, the committee are already in communication with a large concern which has been considering moving to Janesville. It is in a most flourishing condition and employs a large number of men. There are also other factory propositions which are being considered by the committee, so that it is probable Janesville will get a first class concern here shortly.

VERDICT RETURNED IN FAVOR OF HAND

Jury Finds Him Not Guilty of Charge of Conducting an Assignment House.

The jury in the municipal court returned a verdict of not guilty in the case of the city against Oscar H. Hand, charged with conducting an assignment house. The decision exonerated the defendant, and the charges were brought in shortly before five o'clock Friday afternoon after a short deliberation.

The testimony of Mrs. Hand as corroborated by Mrs. Powell added strength to the case of the defense.

SPRINGS CAUSE TROUBLE IN CONSTRUCTING BRIDGE

Contractor W. C. Kiernan Encounters Obstacle in Building Spring Brook Bridge.

Contractor W. C. Kiernan of Whitesboro, who has the job of constructing what is known as the Paul bridge over Spring Brook on South Main street, has encountered an unusual obstacle in the course of the building of the coffer dam for the bridge piers. Springs at the bottom of the forms pour a continuous flow of water into the coffer dam and thus far they have been unable to pump out the water, so fast do the springs feed in the water supply. It is expected that when the enclosure has been pumped dry a layer of cement can be poured in which will eventually check the flow from the springs.

ORDER IMPROVEMENT IN SERVICES GIVEN BY ELECTRIC COMPANY

Action Taken by Railway Commission After Hearing Complaint of Janesville Sand and Gravel Company.

Order that the Janesville Electric Company, at once to improve its service as to the same adequate in all respects was made by the Wisconsin Railway Commission yesterday as the result of a hearing and inspection made in pursuance of a complaint of Janesville Sand and Gravel Company.

It was further ordered that the Electric Company make monthly reports of its service to the commission and to the Sand and Gravel Company and the same shall be treated as willful violation of the orders of the Commission and be turned over to the Attorney General for prosecution without further hearing.

For this reason past the Commission has been enforcing standards set for electric service established July 21, 1908—the standards including among other things provision that voltage regulation shall be kept within certain prescribed limits and that a record be kept of all variations of voltage in the service affecting the entire system or major divisions of the system.

During the years in which these service requirements have been in force, the commission has caused numerous inspections and investigations to be made in connection with the service of the Janesville Electric Company.

Because of its failure to conform to requirements established it was ordered to appear before the Commission in February 1913, to show cause why it should not be prosecuted for violating the order of the commission.

At this time it outlined proposed plans for improving the service which included among other things a general overhauling of the distribution system. Improvements were made so that the Janesville Electric Company could be kept complying with the order establishing standards of service. This being the case the matter was dropped although regular service inspections were made.

In December, 1912, an inspection was made which showed excessive voltage variations both on the direct current and alternating current system and in January, 1913, another inspection showed that some of the meters had not been tested as required and on the sixteen meters tested during lighting hours. It was found that numerous interruptions took place, although in general they were not of very long duration.

Somewhat later attention was called by the Janesville Sand and Gravel Company to the fact that the Janesville Sand and Gravel company had numerous interruptions in service, that a voltage supplied was often insufficient, causing damage to motors, and seriously affecting the operation of the sand and gravel pits. An inspection was made on May 12, 1913, to determine general conditions in Janesville electric service, paying particular attention to interruptions in consequence of the same the Commission decided to formally investigate the service furnished by the company.

C. E. Pierce appeared for the Janesville Sand and Gravel company and P. H. Koon for the Janesville Electric company.

Concerning the equipment and management of the local electric light company the Commission says in its opinion on the complaint in question:

"While the Janesville Electric company has some efficient and reliable equipment, it also has considerable equipment which has reached its minimum service value and is not only unreliable but extremely inefficient. Further shows that the plant operators have been careless and that they are not properly disciplined.

"The management is inclined to be complacent with regard to the quality of service furnished and the quality of making improvements, although a large and prosperous business has been built up with a system consisting largely of outgrown and inefficient equipment. Methods and practices which were adequate and satisfactory during the early years of the company's operation will no longer suffice and it is necessary that a change in both be made.

Various recommendations as to mechanical changes in the plant and system, such as the installation of a frequency motor, and more frequent inspection of lighting arresters are made by the commission in its ruling. Since its hearing in this case the Commission has revised its rules governing electric service and made a new order covering more explicitly than the former order some matters involved in the present case.

BISHOP MESSMER WILL DEDICATE NEW HOSPITAL BUILDING

Ceremony Will be Held Next Thursday Morning—Several Visiting Priests to Assist.

The dedication of the new Mercy hospital in this city will take place next Thursday morning, Oct. 2, at 10 a. m. The ceremony will be conducted by his Grace, the Most Rev. Archbishop Messmer of Milwaukee. The officiating dignitary will be assisted by several priests from different parts of the state. The impressive rites are so seldom witnessed that the privilege is usually a long remembered pleasure, when one has witnessed them.

An invitation is kindly extended to all who may desire to be present. The event is a most gratifying one to the Sisters who have been so long handicapped by so many disadvantages in the old hospital.

Now there will be room for all seeking admission, while doctors, nurses and patients may enjoy the up-to-date advantages such as modern progress requires. Their good will to venture the great undertaking is rewarded by the stately structure, which stands today a monument of beauty, as well as a public testimonial of their zeal and the generous co-operation of kind benefactors who have so cheerfully and so materially aided in making a long cherished ideal a grateful reality.

Mercy hospital adds one more to the substantial and beautiful buildings of Janesville to which all may look with pride.

Taking Python to Feeding Room

Ready to Feed the Big Snake

Breaking the Hunger Strike

A Real Hunger Strike - Four Rabbits for a Starter - Largest Snakes in the World - Many Specimens At Zoo - Cages Resemble Native Haunts.

FORCIBLE feeding is not such a bad thing after all. When you get to know that food is worth while, you are sorry that you ever went on a hunger strike and become just as ready to take food as the next one with a good appetite. This has been proved by Emmeline, formerly known as Czarina. Emmeline went on a hunger strike which lasted twenty-seven months and during that period of abstinence from food went from 230 pounds to 170. Emmeline started her hunger strike long before Mrs. Pankhurst conceived the idea, but unlike the militant suffragette the American would-be-martyr did not get out of her cell, save for half an hour and then had to go back again. Emmeline ate now once a week and if she had her way she would be willing to eat every day. The trouble is that most of the time she is asleep now, because of her going and can't wake up to beg for food.

Emmeline or Czarina, which ever you like, is the largest snake in captivity in the snake house of the New York Zoological Park. She is a regal, regal python and comes from the Malay Peninsula. She has been there now for nearly ten years. While she has a powerful neck that makes it possible for her to drive her head like a battering ram through a barrel, and teeth that are long and strong enough to tear a man's arm from the socket, Emmeline is good-natured. She is not the dreaded Ular Sawa, as most of her family is called by the Malays. There is only one thing that she has found fault with and that is that she is simply obstinate, and true to her sex when she won't she won't.

It is a common thing for members of the Boidae family to which Emmeline belongs to go on hunger strikes. They do it frequently when they are taken captives and the most tempting pig, fat rabbit, or plump capon will not tempt them. The big snakes just look over the live food thrown into their cages and treat it with the indifference of a politician for a constituent after Election Day.

For several years after being brought to the New York Zoological Park Emmeline showed no symptoms of refusing food like others of her relatives had done. She ate regularly and was a pet. Raymond L. Ditmars, curator of reptiles of the New York Zoological Society, and his assistant, Charles Snyder, did more boasting about the big python than about any other reptile they had. She was called Czarina after the steamship which brought her from the Far East.

The python's hunger strike began twenty-seven months ago. Her cage mate Billy, a box constrictor, had frequently done the same thing, but his refusal to take food seldom lasted for more than a week and then he'd get so hungry that he'd just have to forget about his decision and start eating again. When it was discovered that the python had gone on strike and that Billy was getting her share of the food, it was thought that she too, would soon follow the box's methods and fall a victim to appetite. The experts were wrong. Czarina was not that kind of a snake.

Everything possible was done to tempt her. She was placed in a large cage by herself and chickens, guinea pigs, porkers of the roasting size and rabbits were put into the enclosure. She refused to be tempted and spent most of her time sleeping, or coiled up in a corner of the cage.

The snake had been on strike for a year when Mrs. Pankhurst started her militant methods in London and then Czarina lost her regal title and became Emmeline. This did not bother her in the slightest. She refused to respond to any name and just snaked and acted as no python which was a pet of the park officials should do.

When the second year of the strike started Emmeline began to look weak. She was emaciated and showed that even the largest python in captivity in this country cannot stand fasting when it is carried on too long. Then Curator Ditmars decided that if the English authorities could force the human militant suffragettes to take food when they didn't want to, they were not going to have much of a lead on him. Then preparations were made to force Emmeline to eat.

The preparations for the forced meal consisted of getting all keepers of the snake house ready to help. Four rabbits were killed and skinned. The four carcasses were then tied together, the hind legs of one being lashed to the neck of the one next to it with vegetable fibre. When the four were properly tied in a string, a bamboo pole about ten feet long was called for and the rabbit which was first in line was split.

Then the keepers got out Emmeline. She made no attempt to fight them, save once or twice when she was being taken into the open she tried to get a half Nelson around Keeper Snyder's body, and when this failed she proceeded to knock down two of the other men with her powerful tail.

Once in the open the keepers stretched out Emmeline's body. Five men stood near her head, Curator Ditmars forced open the powerful jaw of the snake and two keepers grasped the upper and lower jaws and extended them until the snake's mouth was open wide enough to allow the curtor to get the head of the first rabbit in the cavity.

As the rabbits were skinned there was no fur to catch on the powerful recurved teeth of the snake. Emmeline actually grunted as the string of rabbits started slipping down her throat. She squirmed a lot, but there were too many keepers to stop the operation and in three minutes Ditmars had shoved the string of carcasses five feet past the obstinate teeth and then with a twist released the bamboo pole on which they had been strung. Emmeline did her best to regurgitate the food, but failed. Then she was carried back into her cage and promptly went to sleep for two days.

When she awoke Emmeline showed that the food had done her good and that she had come to realize that hunger strikes were not worth while. She began to show more activity than she had in two years, and before the end of the week was beginning to be forgiven. When a rabbit was given her the little animal disappeared down her throat in less than half a minute and she was crawling close to the cage door begging for more. Since then the snake has been eating regularly, but as yet she hasn't been given back her old name—she is still Emmeline to the keepers. A few weeks more penitence and proof of good conduct may result in the python getting back her old name, Czarina.

The regal pythons, or Ular Sawa, as the Malays call them, are the largest snakes in the world. They are found in Burma, Indo China and through the Malay Peninsula. The python was mentioned by many of the writers of the Orient long before the Christian era and they also are spoken of several times in the Bible. It was an ancient superstition among the Greeks that pythons possessed supernatural powers.

Among the collection are snakes so small that they barely can be seen as they glide about their glass enclosure with lightning-like rapidity, while nearby are half a dozen box constrictors that could easily enmesh a horse and rider in their coils and dash them to pieces against tree or rock. The boas are among the chief attractions in the reptile house, and there is never a time during visiting hours when a crowd is not gathered about their enclosures. The boa family has been greatly augmented since the first pair were brought to the park and since then many fine specimens have been born to the mother snakes.

These, or at least some of them, have been traded or sold to other Zoological Societies which were not so fortunate as to derive their original specimens direct from the jungle. While the average person is disappointed to be assailed by a "creepy" sensation when they enter the reptile house, yet it is one of the most attractive and interesting places in the park. Not only are the specimens the very finest procurable, but those in charge have artistic inclinations which have been given full scope. As nearly as possible the interiors of cages, cases or enclosures each variety of snake is housed in, has been so arranged as to conform to the haunts from which their occupants were taken when captured. While some of these cages are not more than five feet square, yet the landscape effects are ideal and perfectly true to nature. For instance the boas frequently coil themselves about a big tree, their length extending through the various branches until at first glance the visitor is inclined to believe the snake is dozens of yards in length. Sometimes the snake prefers a corner of the cage, where it nestles in the sand, tightly coiled but head so poised that at a moment's notice it can rear itself and strike with tremendous power. The glass that encloses the cage is two inches thick and set in a steel frame, yet the attendants have adopted the precautions to string a network of fine meshed wire on the interior of the cage which, in the event of the snake striking, would break the force of the blow and thus protect the glass and guard against any possible chance of the snake escaping.

One of the most realistic scenes depicted in the snake cages is that set apart for the rattlers. Here are to be found dozens of the dreaded reptiles basking on the ledges of rocks which jut out from miniature mountain sides with all the realism one would expect were he to invade the habitat of these deadly reptiles. Their beady little eyes are ever alert and as visitors approach the cage the tails can be seen to quiver and then follows that peculiar, hissing noise, in reality a rattle, which is so well known to all dwellers in our mountain sections. The mountaineer interprets this rattle as a warning and until he can locate the reptile, he moves gingerly, for one fatal step might mean that he is within range of the poison fangs.

In the reptile house also are to be found hundreds of specimens of rodents, and these are as queer and interesting as the snakes. Incidentally the superfluous offspring of these rodents often make most delectable tidbits for the reptiles.

Cascarets immediately cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system the constipated waste matter and poison in the bowels. No odds how sick, headachy, bilious and constipated you feel a Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from your druggist will keep your head clear, stomach sweet and your liver and bowels regular for months. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a gentle cleansing, too.

Heart to Heart Talks

By CHARLES N. LURIE.

WHAT'S IN A VOICE?

"What's in a name?" asked Shakespeare, and then he proceeded to argue that there was nothing in it.

If he had been moved to ask "What's in a voice?" he might have argued differently. In fact, he did write about the voice of one of his women characters as being "soft, gentle and low, an excellent thing in woman."

Everywhere the low, clear voice carries the day.

The foregoing in regard to the quality of the voice. Of course the same thing holds true when reference is made to its application. No maxim in the Bible is more true than that—

"A soft answer turneth away wrath."

This matter of the voice is practical, not theoretical. More and more men and women are coming to recognize the superiority of the gently spoken word over the blustering phrase.

It was true long ago; it is still more true today.

With the coming of the telephone into our daily lives many of us need lessons in the art of expressing ourselves clearly and distinctly, without unnecessary noise. The telephone companies, which issue directions to their subscribers, recognize the need.

One company, operating in St. Paul and Minneapolis, recently contracted with a specialist to give the telephone girls lessons in voice culture and thus soothe the nerves of impatient users of the wire.

Excellent idea!

We have all experienced the irritation of being greeted with a loud, impatient "Hello!" or "Number?" or "What is it?" when we attempted to get telephonic connection. On the other hand, most of us know how pleasant it is to hear the same thing clearly and distinctly enunciated.

That is true also in direct address. You "take" at once to the man or woman who greets you quietly and courteously whatever your business may be with him or her. You are repelled by the harsh, impatient, loud tone. Still worse is the disagreeable whine which marks the speech of some persons who have not been taught to speak properly.

How about your own voice?

Have you ever given thought to it? It is one of the most generally neglected of personal attributes. Yet it exerts or may be made to exert a more potent influence than the raiment or the charm of personal beauty.

Wise parents attend early to their children's voices.

Prudish Priest.

Prudery knows no frontiers. The historic and valuable frescoes in the church of Benavente, Calvedos, have just been ruined by the misplaced zeal of a parish priest. The frescoes represented the Day of Judgment and scenes from an old French parable, and the priest's action is due to the fact that the painter clothed his figures after the fashion of our first parents.—London Globe.

Queen of Spain and daughter.

According to a trustworthy report, the Infanta Maria Cristina, second daughter of the King and Queen of Spain, born December 12, 1912, so far has failed to talk and the physicians to the royal family fear she is permanently deaf and dumb. The second son of the Spanish ruler, Don Jaime, has been deaf and dumb since birth.

The Queen is said to be greatly worried, and has gone from one court to another at Madrid, asking for special prayers for her daughter.

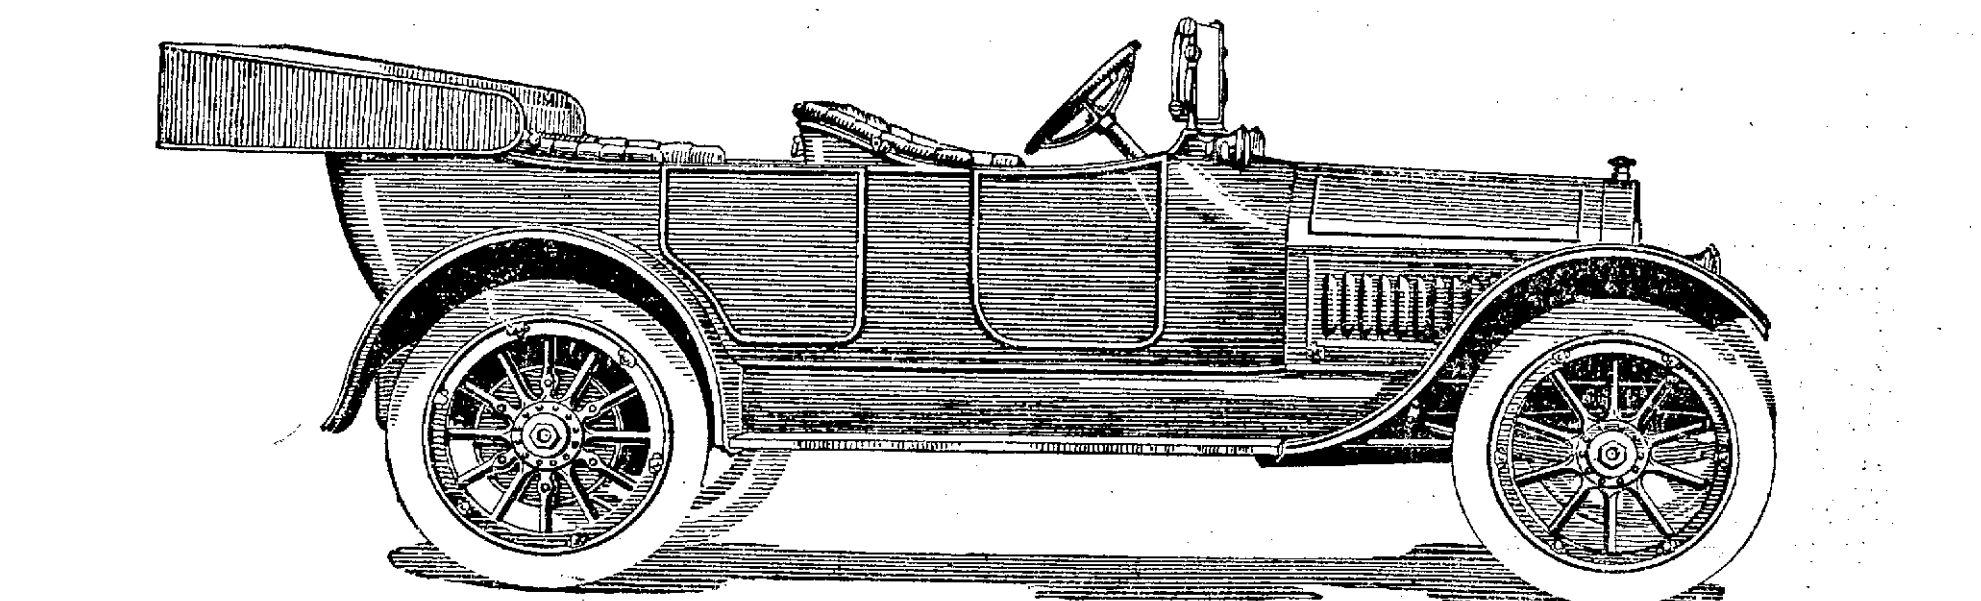

High atmospheric pressure prevails over the interior of the country today, and the weather is generally fair and cool. Frosts are reported in the upper Mississippi valley and in the Rocky Mountain region.

It was attended by light rains in the northern states yesterday. The disturbance in the western end of the Gulf of Mexico still continues to cause rains in the West Gulf states. Evidently Wouldn't Talk.

Cadillac 1914 Flexibility

Here's great news for you who want a "flexible" car—one that will creep or race on direct drive. It is the talk of car-dom today—how this best of all four cylinder cars has been made as flexible as any "six"—how it has been done without adding to power plant complications and gasoline expense—how it has actually reduced fuel and up-keep expense. The word "flexibility" now has a new meaning.

How the Two-Speed Direct-Drive Rear Axle Gives Flexibility.

To-day the perfect, flexible, four-cylinder car is a reality—and it is a Cadillac. Up to now all automobiles have been geared "high" (fast) or "low" (slow) or somewhere in between. When geared high they run smoothly at high speeds, but will not run slowly enough on "direct drive." When geared "low" they run slowly enough on "direct drive," but vibrate uncomfortably at speeds of 18 to 20 miles an hour. The 1914 Cadillac gives the advantages of both high and low.

The illustration below explains it. The Cadillac rear axle now has two bevel gears and pinions with different ratios—3.66 to 1 (low speed) and 2.5 to 1 (high speed). Either may be used with any "transmission" gear. The rear axle gears are shifted by electricity; you just press the button. The "transmission" gears are shifted by hand lever as usual, only now you need do much less shifting.

On "low speed" axle and "direct drive" the Cadillac will run as slowly as you need to in crowded streets, and on "high speed" axle "direct drive" it will run 40 miles an hour with unbelievable smoothness—and faster, of course.

As an example of the degree of flexibility: At engine speed of 700 revolutions per minute in low speed axle and direct drive the Cadillac travels 21 miles per hour. Change to high speed axle and the car travels 30 miles per hour with no increase in engine speed. Obviously the new rear axle accomplishes the same result as a four speed transmission with the added advantage that third and fourth speeds are both direct drive.

For starting quickly, hill climbing and hard going in deep mud or sand the Cadillac in "first" speed combined with "low gear" axle has unusual power available, vastly increasing the ability of the car under such conditions. So not only is the desired flexibility furnished but the Cadillac method gives added power in emergencies.

Nor is this all. The slower running motor at high car speed reduces friction and vibration, thus increasing the life of the entire car, and gives more miles per gallon of gasoline, because a slow running motor gets more power from a gallon.

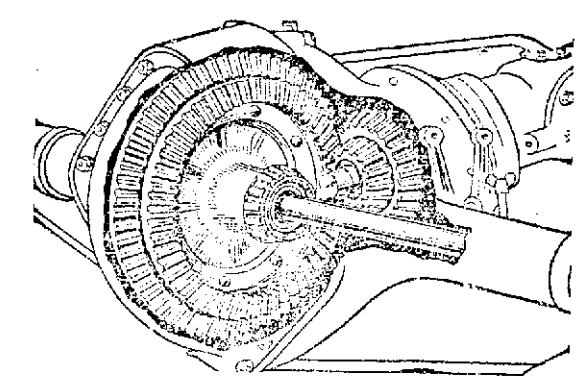

It is truly a notable work to accomplish in a "four" the long sought flexibility and to increase efficiency and durability at the same time. Others have achieved flexibility only at the cost of 50 per cent more complication, reduced efficiency and increased expense. Incidentally, the Cadillac kind of "flexibility" is really wider and better.

Lives Without Brain.

A German medical journal reports the curious case of a child born without a brain, which in spite of this handicap, lived to the age of almost four years. At the autopsy it was found that both the cerebrum and cerebellum, the so-called "big" and "little" brain, were completely lacking, only the medulla oblongata being present. This little knot of brain tissue at the base of the main brain, which in fishes forms the sole brain, was able here to control the functions of the body necessary to a bare existence, but nothing more. The child lay in a state of coma, with contracted arms and almost motionless during his whole existence. It was impossible to obtain the slightest mental reaction.

The Firemen

By GEORGE FITCH, Author of "At Good Old Slwash."

The fireman is one of the most prominent members of our leisure class. His duty is to loaf 23 hours of the day and to twist the tail of the fire fiend with great vigor and expression during the 24th hour.

If the fire fiend would only leave his tail exposed during regular hours of the day, the fireman's life would be almost all joy for the fireman, who would attend the ball same every day and go on river excursions at night. But he never knows when the twisting is to be done. Sometimes he will rise at 3 a. m. to squirt industriously at breakfast time; and then again he will drop a half-gnawed ear of sweet corn at dinner time and travel four miles over a cobblestone pavement on the back of a huge cart in order to subdue a feverish coal shed. Because of this uncertainty the fireman can do nothing but hang around the premises and wait. Waiting is the fireman's chief occupation. He is more patient than the man who has been promised a job by the democratic candidate for congress and who has been holding on the knob of the White House door since March 4th.

Waiting for work is also the life job of many thousand tired men who have learned to ask for it in Volapuk so that they will not be understood. Why then do not these men rush nobly into the ranks of the firemen? It is because the fireman gets his work after waiting for it.

The chief duties of a fireman when he finds work are to arise, leap nimbly into a large-legged chair and slam on a helmet, slide down a brass pole and catch the rear of the hose car as it goes past. He then rides swiftly to his task like any miller, are holding on with one hand and buttoning his shirt with the other. Arriving at his job, he takes a large impetus hose, hoists it up a thirty foot ladder, and squirts it on the flames, brushing the cinders, burning shingles and plate glass out of his eyes with deft movements of his hand. Sometimes he climbs down from the ladder and at other times he falls into the fire and has to be dug out from under 1,000 tons of hot brick. But he does not get any bonus for the latter feat.

When the fireman is not squirting water he is climbing up a red hot wall and rescuing beautiful ladies and fat gentlemen who have awakened too late and have found the elevator not running. The fireman who cannot climb up 11 stories by a water spout and carry two women and a baby over a plank to safety would be jeered by his comrades.

Some firemen live to a fat old age and are buried in one piece by their sorrowing comrades after they have died comfortably in bed. But many of them do not return from the fire until several days afterwards when the ruins have cooled sufficiently to allow the undertaker and the coroner to enter. For this reason we do not gaze with envy upon the fireman as he loafs around the station in his shirt sleeves doing nothing all day and waiting patiently for the chance to adlow a large brick house to fall on him.

London.—Ex-King Manuel of Portugal, who is now on a honeymoon with his bride, Princess Augustine Victoria of Hohenzollern-Sigmaringen, will live in England. On his return to this country he will occupy a house at Twickenham and he is now treating for a residence near Abercorn House, Richmond, the palace of Europe is still wondering why the immensely wealthy and highly connected princess married Manuel after all his liaisons and his debts. The chances of Manuel's ever regaining the throne of Portugal seem decidedly remote.

If Manuel is no more than a pretender, his claims to a throne are at least as strong as are those of the family into which he married. The Hohenzollerns of Sigmaringen claim to be the rightful rulers of Germany; but the truth is they lost all sovereignty in 1849.

FAMOUS "LOSS BOOK" TURNED TO NEW USE

Volume Formerly Employed to Record Only Loss and Capture of Ships Now Records Minor Casualties.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
London, Sept. 27.—Another instance of the old cuss giving way to new is found this week in Lloyd's Underwriters' room, where the famous old "Loss Book," which almost since the inception of the present headquarters only contained records or losses of vessels, their capture, seizure or other forms of detention, is now to become a casualty book, which will have posted within its pages minor casualties, such as damages to ships, equipment, collisions or any happening that might cause delays, for which the underwriters reimburse.

Another improvement will be the posting of home and foreign arrivals on typewritten sheets instead of the present laborious method of entering them by hand in two large volumes. Many of the older, more conservative members express regret at these changes, but the younger generation welcome them as facilitating their work.

Telephone-Telegraph Feud.

The taking over of the telephone system by the British postoffice department has not been welcomed by the other public utilities already under the control of the postmaster general, and when that official returns from his visit to Canada he will find a feud in full swing between the officials of the telegraph and telephone divisions. The officials of the two departments have been at loggerheads for some time and the lack of teamwork has been made painfully apparent by the adoption of separate systems for the two systems, although the same clerks in most of the offices do both the telegraph and telephone work.

Practically ever since the telegraph was invented the code names have been used to designate towns and long names and recently the telephone department decided to adopt the same system, but instead of duplicating the telegraph code it invented one of its own. Now most of the towns have different code names and when the system comes into use on October 1 subscribers will be prepared for trouble. Some of the subscribers already have protested and pointed out that the use of a little common sense and cordiality between the two departments would have secured uniformity.

Eastbourne Tournament Closes Tennis Season

Eastbourne, Eng., Sept. 27.—The annual Eastbourne tournament, so often and only in importance to the all-England championships at Wimbledon has ended, bringing to a close one of the most successful lawn tennis seasons ever witnessed in England.

The season has been a veritable triumph for J. C. Parks, the brilliant Irish player, who went down to defeat to McLoughlin in the championship at Wimbledon. He retrieved this defeat by beating the great American player in one of the single matches in the Davis cup challenge round. Sir's last November Parks has beaten several others, Norman Prosser, A. F. Williams, R. McLeish, R. N. Williams, A. E. Beauchamp and A. H. Lowe.

Abe Martin

What's become of that sweet old fast color girl that could step out of her skirts? Did you ever know a good man that waz a good politician?

Writing of the recent murder of the German-American mineralogist, John Henry Warner, by natives of New Guinea, Dr. Hoffman asserts that the abstention of cannibals in Africa and of Chinese from the flesh of white men is not because they fear the spirit of the white victim or his powers of magic, as has sometimes been assumed, but because they consider that it has an unpleasant taste due to the use of saury spices and condiments and of soaked dishes in the diet of the European.

Dr. Hoffman cites an article printed several years ago in a journal of Liberia, in which it was said that the cannibals in the Liberian territory eat a white man only when he has fallen into their hands alive. Then the victim is immersed to the neck in a running brook and held there by bonds for two or three days, on which the same principle that any oyster is "floated" in fresh water after being taken from the beds. Dr. Hoffman had confirmation of this from a former cannibal.

The reported killing and eating of Mr. Warner in Papua, by the natives, has called attention to the fact that cannibalism is by no means stamped out in New Guinea. Warner believed that radium could be found in Papua and fell a victim to his own zeal. It is reported that his two native companions escaped his horrible fate, the names of which they brought to the coast.

At one time official circles believed that cannibalism was a thing of the past in British New Guinea, but clear evidence that it was persisted into the present decade had been provided by unimpeachable witnesses. In a book published last year, J. H. P. Murray, lieutenant governor and chief judicial officer of Papua, has much to say about the practice of cannibalism among the natives of the island. He writes about boiling springs which not many years ago were made use of for cooking any prisoners captured in the village warfare.

Describing the northeastern division of the island, Murray quotes a native witness, who telling of eating of the human bodies, said: "We boiled them; we cut them up and boiled them in a pot. We eat the legs first. We eat them because they are like fish. We have fish in the creeks and the carcasses in the grass—but men are our real food."

Murray tells of the remark of a Pongos Islander to a stranger who wanted to buy betel nuts from him. "Why should I sell you betel nut, I am going to eat you." Which he promptly did. He also writes of a crew of Chinese, who were eaten one by one, until the captors, surfeited with the delicacy, peddled them to the highest bidder. Wives, who were turned to look around during the murders of their husbands, were killed and eaten. One native who was concerned in the killing of a neighbor, was killed and eaten by the victor and the subsequent eating of the victims with the utmost unconcern.

He told of eating the hand of one wife, but refused to touch the other, as he had killed her, and it was not the custom of his tribe to eat one's own victim. The two women were sliced first then cut up into small pieces mixed with some cooked vegetable and were distributed to the natives, including their women and children.

A dead end to the war academy is an indispensable preliminary to service with the general staff, from which the officers for higher commands are selected, and General von Steuben, possibly has in his hands the military train-

The man who can earn $1,200 a year—less than $25.00 a week—has a brain capital of $20,000. That is, he has the earning capacity of $20,000 at 6 per cent interest. We are inclined to envy the man who has $5,000 or $10,000 in money, even though he have little or no ability.

It is time well spent to take an inventory of ourselves and find out what we are really worth mentally—what our brain capital is. Viewed from this standpoint it is easy to see the value and importance of developing this capital to the full, by training our brains, thoroughly and systematically, to do the things that bring the large rewards. SEWAGE DISPOSAL PLANT MADE AT FOND DU LAC

(Fond du Lac Reporter.)
Another month will see the completion of the entire sewage disposal plant now in the course of construction on the site of the old septic sewer on Doty street, a short distance west of Second street. Practically every pit has been completed, some of them being twenty-five feet below the ground and work has been started on the buildings which will cover the pits and beds.
The largest structure will be that covering the sludge pits. This building will be of concrete and tile. The frame is now practically completed and the work of laying the tile and filling with concrete will begin within a short time. The pits below the structure are entirely completed and their construction represents many tons of concrete and building material.

The sewage will enter the completed plant at a pump house at the southeast corner of the plan. It will be received in pits twenty-five feet below the ground. From one pit it will flow through a separating tank into another. The grates will remove rags and other foreign substances which would injure the pumps of ten, seven and eight inch flow operated by motors of 35, 25 and 20 horse power. The sludge is carried from the pits into a pipe, a short distance below the ground in which it will be carried into a large tank where the sludge is treated with a chemical solution which removes the poisons and kills germs which may exist in it.
The sludge is carried into deep pits where it sinks to the bottom. By the use of water pressure, the solid is forced through a pipe connecting with the sludge beds where it receives the acid treatment which removes the impurities.

TWO RIVERS MUST PAY FOR A LAKE INTAKE

Manitowoc, Wis.—Two Rivers will be forced to pay from $50,000 to $100,000 for a lake intake to secure a water supply for the municipal works here if it wants a pure water supply. This is the conclusion forced upon city officials by the report of the university laboratories which made an examination of water recently submitted from the lake at points 3,000 and 2,000 feet out, to which point it was proposed to extend the intake.
According to the test, the water at a distance of 3,000 feet is poor. The

Concerning Dr. Goddard

DR. GODDARD
The above is a picture of Wisconsin's leading Specialist, who treats Chronic Diseases, without resorting to surgery or the knife.
For many years past, in certain troubles such as Rupture, Chronic Appendicitis, Gall Stones, Gout, and many diseases peculiar to Women, it was thought necessary to resort to surgery.
But in the past few years such brilliant men in the profession as Dr. Metchnikoff of Paris, the leading physician of the world today, Dr. McEwen, Professor of Medicine at the University of Edinburgh, Scotland, Sir Henry Burdette of England, and Dr. Page of Boston, Mass., not to mention many others of great prominence, have become firmly convinced and have proven that many of these cases can be more successfully, better and more safely cured by modern treatment than by the knife.
And it is along these same advanced lines that Dr. Goddard has had his remarkable success in treating Chronic Diseases without operation.
The Doctor comes to Janesville once every four weeks and freely grants consultation to all who call on him at the Myers Hotel.
He comes to us highly recommended, and has had many of our people as his patients, whom he has cured after they had tried many other physicians without relief, in talking with the writer recently the Doctor said: "The tendency among the medical profession in the past has been to put the knife into everybody on the slightest pretext, but with the great advances that have been made in the Science of Medicine in the last few years, many of the broad minded surgeons have seen the errors of their ways, with the result that they are not resorting to Surgical operations in cases that have been cured much better by our modern methods of treatment, thus saving the patient all the suffering and danger, not to mention the expense that attending Surgical operations. I have proven the truth of this statement right here in your community and I should like to show you scores of letters from grateful patients who I cured to prove it to you also."
The Doctor has written a little book that is intensely interesting entitled, "Modern Methods of Treating Chronic Diseases without Surgical Operation," which he will gladly send to anyone absolutely free of charge on request.
Anyone suffering from any Chronic condition, especially if it has failed to respond to the ordinary treatment, certainly avail themselves of the opportunity to consult Dr. Goddard on his next visit to Janesville, on Oct. 7th, at the Myers Hotel, hours: 9:20 a. m. to 4 p. m., or write to him at his permanent address, 121 Wisconsin St., Milwaukee. Send for his little book anyway. It will greatly interest you.

water at a distance of 3,000 feet is fair.
The report also contains the conclusion that water suitable for drinking purposes can be obtained at two miles out. It states further that even there it would probably at times be contaminated when severe storms come.
Engineers recently furnished the city an estimate of $10 per foot for the cost of an intake and if the city is forced to extend the pipe two miles into the lake the cost will exceed $100,000. Further tests are to be made before a decision is reached.

MEMORINEE CONSIDERING NEW LIGHTING CONTRACT

(Memorinee Herald.)
The Chippewa Valley Railway, Light & Power company has submitted a new contract to the city whereby it agrees to furnish the street arc lights for the next five years at a $51 per light per year.
The present contract does not expire until Jan. 1, 1915, but the city is now paying $74 per light per year for the sixty lights. The new contract proposes to reduce that rate to $57 per year and to furnish light for the city hall and hose house without extra charge providing the railroad commission approves of the contract.
There are a number of provisions in the contract submitted that the members of the council want investigated and the matter will then be referred to the railroad commission. It is expected the commission will send an electrician to examine the lights before the contract is awarded.

MUNICIPAL TRUCK GARDEN IS PLANNED BY MARQUETTE

Marquette, Mich.—The establishment of a municipal truck garden is planned by Peor Commissioner Powers of Escanaba. That city is the first to have an official truck garden. Commissioner Powers believes that this ground can be farmed with the prisoners in the city jail as the workers, and that the vegetables and other products of the garden will materially reduce the cost of feeding for the municipal poor. It is proposed to have the two city justices, instead of sentencing "drunks" and "bums" to two weeks or thirty days bond at the county all at the expense of the taxpayers, sentence them to the same time, at hard work on the city farm. The project will be given a trial next summer.

EXPERIMENTING WITH TARVIA ON STREETS AT MONROE

A new wagon for the laying of the tarvia on the East Russell street paving project today and also a car for the fluid. The fluid will be heated by steam at the Blumer Dyeing company's plant to take it from the car and the new wagon is constructed to heat the fluid for spreading on the street. A coat of screening is placed over the crushed rock and then the oil applied and then rolled. Three coats of screenings and oil will be put on the street.

SETTING CEMENT POSTS FOR LIGHTING SYSTEM

(Paraboo Republic.)
The work of setting the cement posts for the lighting system is going on very nicely. A wagon has been constructed with a long platform and derrick attachment, so that by a few men the posts can be set. The post is raised in an upright position and with another block and tackle arrangement the "sitting" process, the post is lowered into the hole. It is necessary in handling the post to return to the place where they are being made and take one at a time because of the great weight, which is about 1400 pounds. They are loaded on the wagon by a derrick.

EQUIP ALL SCHOOLGROUNDS WITH PLAY APPARATUS

(Green Bay Gazette.)
The board of education of the city schools has decided to equip all play grounds with apparatus for children. While this move has been under consideration for some little time no definite solution was reached until just recently. The local board of education in deciding in favor of the step is following the step taken by other boards in different sections of the state. The playground apparatus was installed about a year ago at one of the schools and later some of the others were equipped, but the general move to equip all schools is a new venture.

Beligerent Hospitality.
The darkey's propensity to big words and his inability to get them in the right place are well known. Uncle Jube was an old family servant in the home of Mr. Wayne. That gentleman was enlarging his house, and when a passerby casually remarked upon that fact to the old negro, he replied: "Yes, sah, Mars Wayne's a-cressin' out. He's a-buildin' a new condition to his house so dat he can entertain with more hostility."

BY WALT MASON

They've taken down the great gray tents, the Indians and the great ones who lately robbed the Deadwood has are on their uppers now, or wuss; where late rough riders rode and swore, the bucking bronchos buck no more. Bill's stunt is done and we shall know his name. Buffalo Bill face to more in that in his wintry years, disaster in his path appears! Of pioneers about the last, he links the present to the past. Before our thirty cities rose, he tracked and fought the settlers' foes, and showed the path, o'er lonely plains, to long and creaking wagon trains; both guide and guard, he led the van, in war or peace, a mighty man. With big, brave heart and noble face, a form with tiger's strength and grace, a soul as true as was his aim, and mind as broad as is his fame, of all the heroes of the West, Bill Cody is beloved the best. Oh, hero of our boyhood days! Oh, legend of our frontier wars! The world grows sordid in pursuit of stocks and bonds and other loot; and all we hear along the pike is talk of mergers and the thought of things too hot to be ferreted; of daytime treks and night alarms and stalwart men's appeals to arms, of men who gave their blood to buy the land whereon our mansions lie, of vistas fresh and great and still—and so God bless you, Buffalo Bill!

EXCESSIVE TAXATION

Has Important Bearing Upon High Cost of Living—Paid by Men With Fixed Salaries.
(By Ellis D. Usher.)

Milwaukee, Sept. 27.—It is one of the easiest things in the world to turn down the man who doesn't agree with you entirely as "a grouch," "a licker," "a very limit," "a toby." So I am getting some of that sort of notice for calling attention to extravagance in state expenditures and to some of the public foibles of those who trumpet our achievements in agriculture. To say that my letters are in any sense an attack upon the Agricultural College, the University, or the state government, is about as reasonable as to say it is an attack upon a man to manure his finger nails. I am assuming that in the majority of cases the responsible heads of these public undertakings are too much occupied to attend personally to all the details.

In recent speeches Governor McGovern says that the aggregate biennial appropriation of over $30,000,000 is the outside figure, and that it is not likely to be necessary to spend it all. I have taken particular pains to give Governor McGovern's side of this question as expressed in his speech, but I have not the confidence to believe that he, alone, can keep the expenses from reaching the maximum of the appropriations, for to begin with, he does not expect to be governor in 1915, when the reckoning day of the work of the last legislature will come. He, too, has been criticizing the last legislature.

As to the Agricultural College, and our state agricultural statistics, generally, few people are taking any appreciation of the fact that much very good work has been done, and that Professor Moore has done important things, but for that very reason it seems a great pity that Wisconsin should venture to make herself ridiculous by overplaying a good thing. Many a general has made the fatal error of underrating his enemies. General Grant, never did that, neither did he fail to realize that when he was apprehensive, his opponent probably was quite as uneasy. So it is well to credit other states with having some ability and some common sense, and not attempt to claim things that nobody can prove, and which so far as the Census is concerned, are disproved. Regarding the Census, it should be borne in mind that the Wisconsin reports were made by Wisconsin men, who, presumably, were all of the same mind to make as good a showing as the facts would warrant. The enumerators were all Republicans, and most of them "Progressives," so I am not using any prepared hostile ammunition in making comparisons with the Census of 1910 as my authority. A little drive at Judge Gary, head of the steel corporation, which I found in a newspaper this week, will illustrate just what I mean. Here it is: Judge Gary says that Wisconsin that the money value of this year's crops will be about $9,000,000, but he would not count both the corn and the hog that ate it, if he were talking of United States Steel earnings.

That is the way we are making up what we call Wisconsin statistics. The method ought to be improved if we do not want it to become a laughing stock. It isn't a political matter or it should touch proper state pride in a vital spot.

Taxes and High Living Cost.

In connection with the general subject of the high cost of living which is one that confronts every person with a fixed income, whether it be a salary or a widow's interest, on questions of public expense, comes close to every individual in the state. A recent report from Washington tells us that investigations into retail prices in 40 cities showed that on June 15th last, prices were practically as high as they were last November, when the high record of the last quarter of a century was made. They were, approximately, 60 per cent. higher than the average between 1900 and 1909, and more than 2 per cent. higher than two years ago. When Wisconsin or any town or city in it increases its taxes and outlay the bulk of the money comes out of the middle and laboring classes, the pack horses for it all are the people with fixed incomes, the very rich and the very poor both escape, if not entirely, in very large measure. Any man who earns anything below $5,000 a year is in this burden-bearing class, and so is many a salaried man who gets a larger stipend, for nearly all big salaries carry with them the necessity for large expenditures. The $10,000 man is expected to represent the concern he works for, before the public in clubs and associations, and $25,000 is expected to be still more expensive and associate with millionaires. These obligations are imperative and a part of the contract, and they attach to the big salary. So the high cost of living is a comparative tax, but the salary man who belongs to the union, and who gets as good pay and shorter hours than the mechanic or day laborer, who troubles the refrigerator men from all over the world, who were here one day told us that best steak would ere long be a dollar a pound. All of us poor folks have already forgotten the taste of wild game, because we can't afford to hunt, and our grandchildren will know no more about beef steak, at the rate we are moving, than do the peasants of Europe.

ERIE UNDER MR. UNDERWOOD.

The Wall Street Journal, one day this week, reviewed the two years of the Erie Railroad's progress, under President P. D. Underwood, in most flattering terms. The account says that when the $20,000,000 double track improvement is completed, not later than Dec. 1st, next, "there will be no old Erie." It will have been practically rebuilt and re-equipped in the gradual progress of Mr. Underwood's administration. The account concludes with the information that the surplus of last year, $8,105,900, was more than three times that of 1901, and the gross traffic revenues had grown from $39,162,302 to $62,647,559, and the total gross revenues increased 60 per cent. It may be added to this remarkable showing that most of this improvement has been earned while the work was going on.

Milwaukee Seeks Solution.

"Milwaukee" has embarked in a serious effort to obtain greater efficiency and more for its public outlay, and a preliminary secured the services of an expert from the New York Bureau of Municipal Research, who has just returned after an exhaustive report, recommending ways and means for local administration. The basis of all improvements in municipal methods should be, as this report recommends, the centralization of administrative power in the mayor, with absolute control over all departments, the heads of commissioners and bureaus. This general plan, buttressed with civil service tenure for competent subordinates, is the direction for improvement. A mayor must have the full right to make an affirmative record before the best man will be willing to take the office. In most Wisconsin cities the mayor is without any power but the veto. He is nothing but a public kicking post, with the power to kick anything except to stir up the public. It is not proud position and it is no wonder men dislike to be made to appear responsible when they are helpless. This movement in Milwaukee is a serious one, and is receiving the support of a large and influential body of the business element, so it is likely to be well worth watching.

New Set of Thrills.

Milwaukee is beginning to have a new set of thrills. It really looks as if she had a chance to win the baseball pennant, and if she does, why the owners are going to get a lot of boys in their bellies. The fans are feverish with excitement already and the "porting extras are grabbed up as if the buyers expected to eat them. If the Rogers really win, which looks very likely now, I can believe the evidence of the real "saups" at the game, why gentle reader, you'll feel the earth tipping toward this berg when the season closes, and if you've got any gimp in you, you'll follow the advice to old Keller and just "git it" for Milwaukee to see the old town warm up. She will surely be off her trolley and running wild, and you will get an embrace that will astorish you.

Short Notes.

Next Tuesday will be the 30th of September, and it will mark a red letter day for one of the most modest and at the same time one of the most worthy and faithful citizens of Wisconsin—Dr. F. W. A. Nottz of Watertown. Fifty years ago he received the degree of doctor of philosophy at the University of Tuebingen, Germany. The faculty of that institution has sent him a renewal of that degree to date from the university with warm compliments. It is in effect an honorary degree, and most worthily bestowed. He is an honor to his alma mater, and to the Northwestern University of Watertown, where he has long and successfully labored.
It appears to me that the Republican members of Congress from Wisconsin who voted solidly for the currency bill were more consistent than were those who voted for the Underwood tariff bill. The currency bill is a protection measure. Free trade in steel and protection in money seems to be the logic of the situation and both parties are crossed-eyed.

W. O. DOUGLAS AWARDED PRIZES AT VARIOUS FAIRS

W. O. Douglas residing near Janesville, was very successful in displaying his Jersey cattle at the Wisconsin county and state fairs during the present season, capturing sixty-eight ribbons and a total premium list of seventy. This includes thirty-four firsts, twenty-three seconds, five thirds, two fourths, and two sixths, and was awarded the grand championship on his cow and bull at the Evansville fair. RARE examples of the narrator's art are these fascinating stories from the pen of Vaughan Kester, the man who wrote The Prodigal Judge, The Just and the Unjust, Etc., and through them charmed the reading world as has no other recent author of fiction. The delicate humor, the gentle pathos, the tender sentiment, the gripping interest and truthfulness to life which characterize his novels likewise stamp these stories with the mark of high genius and bring to them a value which of itself is sufficient to demand the attention of those who love a story for the story's sake.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

ENJOYING ILL HEALTH.
THERE is unquestionably such a thing as enjoying ill health. Or perhaps I should put it less harshly, and say, making a vocation of ill health.

If you should use that phrase to the people whose way of living it describes, they would be highly indignant. Oh, would you not have the little girl them to listen to themselves, and hear the peculiar gusto with which they speak of "one of my headaches," "my rheumatism," "one of those bad attacks I'm subject to," etc., etc.

In all the world there is nothing so joyless as such enjoyment.

The people who indulge in it have my profoundest sympathy.

For they are unhappily caught in a vicious circle. The medicine they most need is a mental effort, and that mental effort, by the very nature of their disease, is peculiarly hard for them to make.

When the doctor says that there is nothing the matter with anyone except nerves, the patient's relatives often take that to mean that there is nothing the matter with her at all. In reality it means that she has a disease which is as difficult to cure as many organic troubles.

When we are told that anyone has the opium or some other drug habit fastened upon him we realize that he has a terrible disease which excites our greatest pity and requires the most careful treatment. Now the habit of enjoying poor health is just as deadly and insistent a disease, and the poor unfortunate who has drifted into this cruel habit deserves just as much pity and just as careful treatment.

And for what he does while under the domination of that habit, for his gloomy ways, his distressing pessimism and his miserable self-centredness, he does not deserve blame, only pity.

The fault committed, if fault there was, lay in letting himself drift into the habit.

It is terribly hard to get out of this peculiar state of mind.

It is only about one hundredth part as hard not to get into it.

Even as I write, I know hundreds of thousands of women are drifting that way.

You, reader friend, may be one of them.

Then don't do it. Whether it's neuritis, or nervous indigestion, or sleeplessness, or headache, or queer feelings, or depression, or any one of the innumerable forms which that devil knows how to assume, stop now.

Don't be so tense. Relax. Cultivate serenity. Don't hurry, but don't be idle. Have plenty to take up your mind and keep you occupied but don't crowd yourself.

If there is any organic manifestation such as indigestion, treat that with rest, diet and as little medicine as possible. Then attend to the nerves which caused the trouble. But above all things, don't get into the habit of watching yourself and your symptoms as a cat watches a mouse. Don't enjoy ill health or make a vocation of it.

People who absolutely cannot afford to have nervous trouble almost never do. Be one of these people. A friend of mine declares that if nerves were a prison offense we should not need any more nerve specialists. I think he's pretty near right, don't you?

Fads and Fashions

New York, Sept. 25.—Many of the latest importations for autumn and winter wear show the lowered waist which gives to the feminine figure a curiously boyish aspect. The fashionable women Paris are adopting this lowered waist-line quite freely and at some of the fashionable watering places many of the smartest women appeared in blouse coats made of this material like a boy's smock. The waist belt was lowered to the line of the hips and the seams under the arms were almost straight. This is one of the very latest ideas in Paris.

The lowered belts are being made in many different materials, such as supple leather in a pale tawny color, or in a heavy make of richly embroidered in raised silks and small beads, or in a heavy make of linen worked over with fine wool, or again in plain de soie embroidered in wools and floss silks mixed. These curious belts are always arranged in such a manner that they circle the hips and they are fastened in front with a handsome buckle.

Mousseline de soie is being very successfully combined with Shantung. The new makes of Shantung are heavy in texture and wonderfully supple. The Parisian dressmakers are using Shantung very freely for autumn and even winter costumes, and it is especially effective in a peculiar shade of poppy red.

Afternoon gowns intended for restaurant wear at the tea hour are made of this material with pleated tunics of mousseline de soie or crepe de Chine. One of the new Worth models was composed of Shantung in a deep shade of violet with a border of black fox on the tunic of crepe de Chine. On the corsage, which bloused over the waist, there were some beautiful Chinese embroideries and the fronts turned back over a chemise of rare old lace.

One of the most popular dressmakers in the French capital is using chiffon cloth and plain chiffon to gather for indoor dresses. This combination looks very charming in a pale shade of gray with a touch of violet on the waist and some really handsome lace on the chemise.

Gray in all possible shades is one of the colors of the season. Pearl gray is being most successfully combined with white velvet and velvet for really rich tea gowns and a deep shade of smoke gray is being very much used for mantles in conjunction with bands of smoke-gray fox. All shades of rich blue are in demand in light materials as velours de laine and liberty cashmeres. Cashmeres in these materials are trimmed with bands of sable or of black fox, and the craze of the moment seems to be for Chinese embroideries of the finest description.

In a day of charming negligee any shoulder scarf can be transformed into part of a negligee. All that is necessary for the transformation is a wisp of tulle, a yard or two of ribbon, a few artificial flowers and a little satin, net, silk or mull. The scarf can be formed into puffed or pleated sleeves, put into a satin jacket, which ties with tiny roses made from the ends of the scarf, while the middle part of the scarf is used for the sleeves.

Or the negligee can be made with a little tulle, held together with pleated tulle, trimmed with tiny roses made from the ends of the scarf material. Another way to use a scarf on a negligee is to fasten it loosely around the neck, just as a scarf. The effect so produced is charming and adds to the picturesque effect.

Old shawls last year were often made over into interesting evening cloaks. Some edged with fur and softly lined with soft-covered silk were really beautiful. When Persia will seemingly predominate, just as the Balkans and Egypt did last year, there is more reason than ever to bring out the old Persia shawl and convert it into a wearable evening gown.

Last spring an interesting evening gown of net and spangles was exhibited. It was before yet had come in for the vogue that it is enjoying now and which probably will enjoy for a long time. The dress showed a foundation of plain white net, but it was almost completely covered with Egyptian gauze scarfs, spangled with tiny gilt disks and crescents. The result was an elaborate and rich evening gown. The spangles shimmered in every light and gave the net a weight and dignity that made it the more attractive. With the gown there was a little cap of the spangled net, and an opera bag to match, lined with golden-yellow silk.

No matter what the style or material of a gown may be, the neck is left open. The high square or rolled Medici collar has had its day. Everything is copied after the eighteenth century French portraits. The neck wear is arranged high in the back and low in front. The V has been replaced to some extent by the U and by the colonial decollete which is close to the neck at the shoulder line and runs out over the bust to a sharp point on each side.

This outline, however, is never left undisturbed. It is filled in with tulle, lace, or net, not always in white, or black, but in every color imaginable. It is in keeping with the desire for all black and all white and not a mixture of the two.

With these open necks women wear a lot of lovely velvet ribbon which sometimes has pendant stones such as jade, or turquoise, matrix, or Irish topaz, or pink quartz. Sometimes a single locket is worn, frequently ornamented with a diamond or crest in small diamonds set in line design of platinum thread.

When one does not wish to leave the neck uncovered, one stretches a tight bit of tulle across the opening and finishes it above the collar bone with a row of pearls or of coral beads and sometimes cut jet. When the woman has a chest which is neither full nor white, she may build up the lower part of the decollete with thin bands of tulle, which is quite attractive.

Velvet is to be much used this year on frocks for little girls. In the form of girdles, collars and cuffs it will be used freely, and velvet coats and hats, too, will be used. But whatever tendency there is to mold the fashion of juvenile styles by the rules laid down for grown-up styles, children's frocks are still simple in outline and design.

Zibeline and chinchilla are favorite materials for the coat of the little girl. These coats are made, usually, with belts a little below the waist and are buttoned from collar to belt with big bows or velvet buttons.

A coat suit, with straight, short jacket and plaited skirt, is correct for the little schoolgirl. With it is worn a soft silk shirtwaist, with long sleeves, turnover collar and silk tie.

Bible Workers Disliked.

In Central America, Honduras, Nicaragua and Costa Rica in particular, the feeling among the common people is that Bible work is only a start to lead up to political occupation. Sometimes even squads of men are formed to chase Bible agents out of the country.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl fifteen years old. A young man who I dislike very much is trying to pay attention to me. He is married and is living with his wife. I can seldom go anywhere but that he manages to get there, so much to my displeasure. He claims he loves me and tells me so every time he gets a chance. What ought I to do? My parents do not care what I do at all about anything. Shall I tell his wife? They have had no quarrels and I hate to do so. Would it be best for me to leave the country?

ANXIOUS INQUIRER.

The man only wishes you harm. Tell him the next time he troubles you that if he does not leave you alone you will report him to the proper judge of your county. The proper judge will see that you are protected.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1)—I am a girl of twenty-two and am engaged to a boy of twenty. He is in business for himself and well able to support a wife, and besides will soon (that is, when of age) inherit $15,000. Would you advise me to marry him?

(2)—What is your opinion of a neighbor young lady who drops in for dinner and comments on it to the neighbors?

(3)—What costume would you suggest for a bride to wear at a morning wedding?

(4)—Is it proper for a young man to have dinner with a young lady every Sunday and not invite her out in return to some place of amusement?

(5)—Marry him. If you love him $15,000 won't it be much better to wait until he is of age and at a legal age to marry on his own account.

(6)—She is ill-bred.

(7)—She may wear white in full bridal array, with high neck and long sleeves, or she may wear her going-away gown.

(8)—It would only seem courteous that he should want to give her some pleasure in return.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1)—I am a girl of seventeen. Am I too young to go with boys?

(2)—There is a certain boy I know and like very much and there's another one that I know likes me, but as long as I have the former one in my mind I can't treat the latter right. Please advise me.

(3)—What is good to remove freckles?

(4)—Will a skirt drawn a little bit look all right with a Balkan blouse?

(5)—Is a girl of sixteen too young for a debut party? Are there many of these given nowadays?

INTERESTED READER.

(1)—You are not too young to have boy friends.

(2)—Don't put all your hopes and affections on one boy, my dear. Such matters are very uncertain at your age. Make up your mind that you are going to see nice things in all the boys you know except those that are not good company for a nice girl.

(3)—Try this for the freckles: One oz. of petrolatum, 1 oz. of alcohol (anhydrous), 1 fluid oz. hydrogen peroxide, fluid oz. acetic acid. Protect your skin from the sun as much as possible. To make the hair thicker, rub a little vaseline or castor oil into the scalp and massage it well every day.

(4)—Yes.

(5)—Yes. Eighteen is the age.

Quite a number are given.

SUGGESTIONS FOR BREAKFAST.

At any season of the year fruit is a most refreshing breakfast dish served as the beginning of the meal, then a bit of bacon always makes an appetizer whatever else there may be.

Oat meal cutlets are a good substantial dish made by using cold cooked oat meal formed in cutlets and fried in bacon fat until brown on both sides. Insert a stem of parsley and serve.

Eggs in Nests.—Beat as many whites of eggs as there are pairs of people to serve as one white will be sufficient for two. Heap the white which has been salted on buttered toast, hollow a place and drop in the yolk of an egg, place on a platter, and when enough are prepared set in the oven to cook. Serve with bits of butter and a dash of salt and cayenne on each. Garnish the platter with parsley. The extra white not used, may be used in a pudding or cake.

Egg and Potato Relish.—Select smooth shapely potatoes and bake in the oven. When done, cut in halves and remove the center of the potato. Break in an egg yolk, sprinkle with salt and season with butter, add a teaspoon of cream and set in the oven. In the meantime beat the whites of the eggs to a stiff froth and add the mashed potato, which was taken from the centers! Heap roughly over the baked egg and when well puffed up and brown, serve with minced parsley sprinkled over each.

Breakfast Rolls.—Cut a slice from the top of the rolls, spread with butter and brown the shells in the oven. Have ready some creamed fish, fill the shells sprinkled with parsley and serve hot.

Another pretty way of serving eggs is to cut bread into rounds an inch and a half thick, scoop out the center, leaving a place to drop and egg. Rub the case with butter and brown in the oven, then add the egg and set in the oven to cook. Season and serve.

Mush Rings With Fruit.—Prepare a pan of corn meal mush and when cold turn out and slice, then use a doughnut cutter to cut into rings. Fry brown in bacon fat and serve with prunes and cream.

A Summer Cottage—By John Henry Newson

Home of Character No. 184

Believing that many Gazette readers have determined, during their vacation, to erect a cottage of their own before next summer, the Gazette has requested Mr. John Henry Newson to furnish a design for a cottage costing approximately $1000. Concerning the design, No. 184, Mr. Newson says: "In this design the artistic possibilities of a small home or cottage are shown. The side walls are carried out in wide siding, a feature so often used in our designs because of the broad effect which is given by this material, with a shingle roof and the foundation of stone, concrete block or brick. The first floor plan provides for a combination living and dining room and a kitchen and bedroom. Two bedrooms are provided on the second floor with an open air sleeping porch. Each room has an ample closet and the entire plan and exterior is admirably suited for Sea Shore Cottage or Summer Home use.

"The bedroom on first floor can be changed into a dining room if desired, and a bathroom installed on second floor, both of which changes would be desirable if the house is intended for all the year round use. This cottage, 28x24 feet, could be built for from $800 to $1200, depending on equipment and grade of materials used."

Continuing Mr. Newson says: "We have received a number of inquiries concerning the different 'Homes of Character' which have been published in The Gazette, and I trust that Gazette readers fully understand that our arrangement with you is to answer all such inquiries without any charge whatsoever. Most of the inquiries which we have received from Gazette readers have been accompanied by stamps, which, while not required, we fully appreciate."
